Transportation before taking final action. Examples of transportation facilities are state highways and bridges, structures, facilities, state rest areas, and roadside facilities such as viewpoints.

Any governmental or private entity may initiate the process to name or rename a state transportation facility. The party proposing a name or change of name must provide supporting evidence indicating community support. Such evidence may include letters from state legislators, members of Congress, and resolutions from locally elected bodies in the impacted area.

Summary of Amended Bill:

State ferries are specifically added to those transportation facilities that the Commission may name or rename.

A party proposing a name or name change for transportation facilities may use evidence of community support that includes letters and resolutions from governments of federally recognized Indian Tribes.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date of Amended Bill: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) The Washington State Transportation Commission (Commission) supports the bill. The topic came up last year when the state was considering building new ferries. It was unclear who had ability to name ferry vessels. This bill makes it clear that the Commission has that ability. The Commission has established a process to name transportation facilities.

(Opposed) None.

Persons Testifying: Paul Parker, Washington State Transportation Commission.

Persons Signed In To Testify But Not Testifying: None.
